2. Login into the EHEA Archive

To access documents that are not available to the wider public BFUG members will receive a username and a password to login into the restricted area of the EHEA Archive.

¹ This link to the EHEA archive is temporary. The main website will be moved on the EHEA server in the beginning of April at the following link: <http://archive.ehea.info>.

3. Search function:

The Search function enables users to look for any documents within the archive by typing in a keyword. The Search will return back all documents that have within their description the introduced keyword.

When searching for two or more keywords the results will first reveal documents that match the characteristics of the combined keywords and secondly it will reveal the results for each individual keyword.

Ex: Searching for "BFUG minutes"

4. Advanced Search function

The Advanced Search enables users to look for documents that are registered under the following features:

- period it was released;
- BFUG group that has issued it;
- type (BFUG or non-BFUG);
- country and location;

B. EHEA Archive Backend

The EHEA Archive Backend is currently administered by the BFUG Secretariat, who is responsible for managing the documents within the archive. The backend allows:

- to define and delete users, that can allow for differentiated access to the non-restricted, restricted or highly restricted documents;
- Adding filters for extending the current features of the documents uploaded on the EHEA Archive;
- Adding, sorting, reviewed or modifying documents. All changes are reflected on the Frontend of the EHEA Archive.

Using the EHEA Archive Backend will be one item for the handover to the Armenian BFUG Secretariat.
